CONCEPT

WRITTEN CONCEPT

Post It To Prague explores the hands-on nature of scenography and the people who bring performance worlds to life. The tone we went for was warm, informal and curious, encouraging designers to make, share and connect through the journey to Prague.

The identity is inspired by the process of making, using cut-paper forms, layered shapes and simple handmade compositions to reflect how scenographers physically build, arrange and experiment with materials.

We were inspired by the Australian sunset colour palette to create a visual connection between designers across the country, representing the shared sky that exists between distant places when traveling.

We wanted to create a playful and distinctly Australian identity that highlights the unseen creative processes from the world of performance.

RESEARCH

INSIGHT RESEARCH

We found it interesting that rather than interpreting the theme of "Absences and Silences" as quiet and sombre, the responses seem to construe it as a celebration of the hidden aspects of performance design. Thus we decided to take a layered approach of the theme and lean more into the celebratory aspect of it.

We also placed a lot of emphasis on capturing the visual identity of Australian designers, giving representation to the variety of designers with a theme that linked everyone and provided nostalgia.

Based on the questionnaire that was sent out to Performance Design students, there was a strong indication for a desire for an interactive and immersive experience with vibrant colours.

Hence, with their suggestions, we narrowed down our key design concepts as nostalgia, memories with a focus on creating curiosity and intrigue in our design.

RESEARCH AREAS

Four complementary areas made up our research in order to establish conceptual, cultural, spatial, and practical ideas that surrounded Post It to Prague. The findings were combined to guide the identity and exhibition direction.

SHARED RESEARCH

ABSENCE AS POTENTIAL · MOVEMENT + DISTANCE · VISIBLE PROCESS · FLEXIBLE SYSTEMS · HANDMADE MATERIALITY

VISUAL RESEARCH

We explored postcard aesthetic, temporary performance space, and the experience of distance between Prague and Australia. These directions helped inform the brand identity's sense of movement and material texture.

01

POSTAL + ANALOGUE

Mail art, imperfect paper, and postmarks informed the identify's tactile, handmade character.

02

SPACE + PERFORMANCE

Temporary structures and visible creative labour inspired an identity that feels constructed.

03

DISTANCE + PLACE

Communication, negative space, and the journey from Australia to Prague was established as the main idea of connection and distance.

04

LANDSCAPE + COLOUR

First Nations references were considered during early research stages. Although this direction was not carried into the final identity, it reinforced our considered use of colour, landscape and layered forms without reproducing specific cultural motifs.

BRAND IDEA + TONE

THE IDEA

Post It to Prague transforms the distance between Australia and Prague into a shared, handmade stage. Suspended paper landscapes, elongated figures and postal markers reveal the normally unseen processes behind performance design: fragments, tests, tools and gestures. Tactile textures, playful proportions and imperfect forms connect professional and student contributors through one adaptable visual world that is always in transit.

VERBAL DIRECTION

tone of voice

Post It to Prague encapsulates warmth, curiosity, and clarity. The language applied makes creative process visible, invited engagement, and connects people across distance. Headlines can be expressive while practical information remains direct.

01 CURIOUS

Evoke discovery through open questions and possibilities. Encourage audiences to look beyond the finished outcome.

“What happens between here and there?”

02 COLLABOATIVE

Celebrate the people behind the work. Utilise “our”, “we”, and “together” to reinforce the shared journey.

“From many places, under one sky.”

03 IN MOTION

Use active words such as build, create, send, and travel. Link the language to movement and process.

‘Ideas travel. People build.’

04 CLEAR

Keep sentences concise and avoid unnecessary, overcomplicated words. Make instructions, dates, and locations easy to find.

“Explore the work. Meet the designers.”

DO

Warm, inclusive language and concrete actions.

“Discover the ideas behind the work.”

DON'T

Use corporate language or vague claims.

“Engage with a multidisciplinary experiential activation.”

Dear Sir/Madam,

RE: PQ27 — POST IT TO PRAGUE AUSTRALIA

Some things travel loudly.
Others arrive through what is missing.

PQ27: Post It to Prague Australia is a creative journey shaped by movement, distance and exchange — but also by the spaces between them.

This year, the project considers the theme Absences and Silences: what is left unsaid, unseen, delayed, forgotten or carried quietly from one place to another.

Between departure and arrival, meaning can shift. A gap can become a message. A silence can hold as much weight as a statement. An absence can leave a trace.

What is sent may not arrive unchanged.
What is missing may still be present.

Subject Re: Next steps for Post It to Prague

Hi there,

Thank you so much for joining Post It to Prague! We're really excited to have you be part of the project and are looking forward to receiving your contribution.

We'll be in contact with you shortly with an envelope containing the tape, stickers and further instructions on how to prepare and send your work to us.

We're so excited to see what you create and to have your work become part of the project in Prague!

Thank you again for contributing.

Best,
The Post It to Prague Team
